

Program Description: The Cohort

The RS Annual Production, Reimagined!

This past summer, Rhythmically Speaking celebrated 10 years of presenting excellent staged work inspired by jazz and American social dance ideas and created by primarily Minnesota-based artists as a means of building community and encouraging consciousness of the sociocultural histories of and innovations in these forms. Now entering our second decade, we are excited to stretch ourselves and fulfill our mission in innovative new ways by reimagining our annual multi-choreographer production under the title Rhythmically Speaking presents The Cohort.

For this inaugural year of the program, we are looking for one “Local” (Minnesota-based) choreographer (in addition to RS Artistic Director Erinn Liebhard) to make a new work, and two “Touring” choreographers (based outside Minnesota) to revisit a piece of their repertoire. We will also be casting a group of eight to twelve dancers to learn and perform said works. The project will culminate in a fully produced show August 15-17, 2019 at the Southern Theater in Minneapolis.

This new vision for our annual production will continue our support of new work by local choreographers while providing touring opportunities for choreographers from outside Minnesota. It will also create regular professional performance opportunities for local dancers interested in staged work inspired by jazz and American social dance ideas. We are looking to deepen the engagement of and improve compensation for involved artists and to offer audiences fewer but more substantial works to experience while building community among all of them. Details for potential CHOREOGRAPHERS:

Eligibility:

- Artists at any point in their careers are welcomed to apply. Must 21 and older.
- Submitted work must explore staging of jazz and American social dance forms: approaches include but not limited to tap and hip-hop styles. Potential applicants encouraged to join our ongoing conversation around “what constitutes jazz and American social dance?” by applying.

Requirements:

- Submitted pieces must be between 15-22 minutes and for 8 dancers or less. “Local” choreographer submissions must be for making a new work, and “Touring” choreographer submissions must be for revisiting a piece of existing repertoire. All work to be set on The Cohort’s dancers.
- Selected choreographers are to teach a master class and do a public showing of their work at the end of their rehearsal period.

- Dutiful participation in production week activities and post-program evaluation efforts is expected.

Compensation:

- Commission includes full rehearsal and presentation support, from the provision of rehearsal space and dancers to the rental of celebrated Twin Cities performance venue The Southern Theater, a full technical staff, and major marketing support from Rhythmically Speaking for the show, as well as an honorarium of at least *$1,500.00.
* Honorarium offered at the same rate for both Local and Touring choreographers, given the former will be in rehearsal more and the later will have travel costs to cover. Homestay available for Touring choreographers during rehearsal periods and production week.

Submission Details:

- Submission Form to be completed as a PDF file with naming convention "LASTNAME," and sent to rhythmicallyspeakingdance@gmail.com by 5pm CST on Friday, 11/30/18. Limit text to amount of space provided on the form, keeping application to a SINGLE PAGE.
- Video sample required: MUST be submitted as 'Unlisted' YouTube link within Submission Form. Local applicants: select ONE video of an entire past work best representing your aesthetic/ the work you hope to create. Touring applicants: provide video of entire work being submitting.

Details for potential DANCERS:

Eligibility:

- Artists at any point in their careers are welcomed to audition. Must be 21 or older.
- Prior experience with jazz and American social dance forms will be beneficial.

Requirements:

- Agreement to learn and perform 2-4 of the 4 works programmed onto the show.
- Dancers are expected to *dutifully participate as movers in rehearsals, public showings and production week activities and post-program evaluation efforts.
* In the event a Choreographer chooses to seek additional creative contribution, dancers can expect to receive appropriate additional recognition in the program and the support of RS staff in defining their developed role as needed.

Compensation

- Stipend based upon rate of $10 per hour (ex: a dancer cast in a local and a touring choreographer piece will receive approximately $950 - 60 hours of rehearsal, 10 hours of brush-ups and 25 performance hours). Potential for bonus pending fundraising and ticketing outcomes.

Audition Details:

- Fill out this Google Form prior to the audition and come prepared to move through a warm-up and phrases the touch on the aesthetic priorities of the selected choreographers. Cast will be announced by the end of the day on 1/14/19.
